World language requirement for students whose primary major will lead to a BA degree:

- Students must complete a college-level second introductory course in a world language (the 112 course at Jewell or the equivalent) or a higher-level course.
- It is suggested that students who have previously studied a world language but who have not yet earned credit for a college-level second introductory course take the language placement exam to further help with proper placement. Transfer students with high placement scores (above the 112 level) will be invited to take an optional 112 equivalency exam with a faculty member in the Languages Department. Passing this equivalency exam satisfies the B.A. world language requirement.
